

'City Impression@Connectivity' - Workshop on Tactile Map

Introduction

'City Impression@Connectivity' is a collaborated project between the Planning Department and the Hong Kong Design Institute. This project aims at narrowing the distance between people and our city by exploring the connectivity between different groups of people and urban space. To complement the Thematic Exhibition on 'City Impression@Connectivity', the Workshop on Tactile Map allows participants to understand more about the real needs of the visually impaired through designing and making the tactile maps which can facilitate the travelling of the visually impaired to and from places and enhance their interaction with different people.

What is Tactile Map?

Tactile map is a very useful barrier-free facility to assist the visually impaired with the layout of a built environment in providing spatial information.
